Star Alliance introduces new Digital Service Platform.

Star Alliance has launched a new Digital Services Platform (DSP), aimed at assisting partner carriers share data when customers are travelling with several airlines.

STAR ALLIANCE™

The alliance said that the longer-term aim of the platform is to "allow customers to use any member airline's website or mobile application to obtain all the information they need for travel on several Star Alliance member airlines". "Most frequent travellers have a 'home airline' in our network and would prefer to control their entire travel experience through a single app or website. We are therefore working to create central capabilities that can be shared for use by our individual members."

Air France/KLM marine and offshore news

AFKL are making changes to the way in which we can book marine and offshore fares. From the 1st January we will require a AFKL

Bluebiz number to book these fares and are unable to issue AF/KLM tickets without.

Eurostar announce much-anticipated new service between London and Amsterdam.

The new route will launch on April 4th, with tickets going on sale from February 20th. It's also worth noting that the London-Amsterdam service, which stops at Brussels-Midi/Zuid enroute, will result in what Eurostar says is its fastest ever journey time between London and Brussels of just one hour 48 minutes.

Saudi Arabian Airlines (SV)

We will now be asking for passenger contact details when booking Saudi Airlines (SV). The airline has announced that if passenger contact details are missing from the bookings they will fine travel agents. As a result we will not issue tickets for this airline without these details.
