The Manifest - October 2021

In late September Emirates announced itself as the first carrier undergoing a full global implementation of Travel Pass, which provides information on travel requirements, access to Covid-19 testing centres and digital documentation of test results and vaccination certificates. After tests on select routes starting last April, Emirates now will have the tool available across its full network this month.

Etihad Airways, Qatar Airways, Qantas and its low-cost subsidiary Jetstar, Royal Jordanian and Kuwait's Jazeera Airways also are planning to implement Travel Pass across their network in a phased roll out.

IATA Travel pass currently is able to manage vaccine certificates from 52 countries, representing about 56% of the global air travel market. By the end of November, IATA expects that will increase to 74 countries, representing 85% of global air traffic.
