Canada reintroduces random Covid testing for arrivals
Canada has resumed its mandatory arrival testing for fully vaccinated air travellers. The testing programme at Vancouver, Calgary, Montreal and Toronto will now take place outside of airports to reduce congestion in the terminals. This must be completed by the end of the next calendar day after arriving into Canada, either by an in-person appointment at select testing provider locations and pharmacies or via virtual appointment for a self-swab test. Travellers are not required to quarantine while awaiting the test result.

KLM to cancel up to 20 European flights daily until end of August
The carrier said that "Work pressure at the airport is currently relentless as Amsterdam Schiphol and KLM are both faced with staff shortages"

Heathrow Express is launching a Business First Fast Track service. Passengers who purchase a Business First ticket will be able to use the priority lane for security at Heathrow airport, enabling them to skip the normal queues. This does not come at an extra cost to passengers, with tickets priced at £32 for an anytime day single and £55 for an anytime day return. Business First passengers also benefit from extra legroom and a worktable.
